The Food Bank has changed its strategy when it comes to distributions. Those in need will need to preregister with the Food Bank and a distribution site will be set up for people to pick up their food. Here's the screenshot.

El Banco de Alimentos ha cambiado su estrategia cuando se trata de distribuciones. Los necesitados deberán registrarse previamente en el Banco de Alimentos y se establecerá un sitio de distribución para que las personas recojan sus alimentos. Aquí está la captura de pantalla.

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying the San Antonio Food Bank website. The browser's address bar shows the URL <https://safoodbank.org/>. The website header includes the phone number 210.337.3663, the email address info@safoodbank.org, and social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn, and Email. The main content area features a green banner with the text "Neighbor Helping Neighbor Response Effort" and the San Antonio Food Bank logo. Below the banner, there is a call to action: "Sign up here to get emergency food at an upcoming mobile food distribution." with a green "SIGN UP" button. Further down, there is another call to action: "Call 210.431.8326 to speak with someone about all the ways the Food Bank can help you in this time of crisis." with a green "CALL" button. A section for volunteers follows, stating: "VOLUNTEERS: Food Bank volunteer shifts have been streamlined for efficiency and safety. Shifts are full at the moment; however, we are adding new shifts as we reshape our volunteer response to meet the changing needs in the community." and "Sign up here to get on our waitlist for the volunteer shifts and activities as they open" with a green "CLICK FOR VOLUNTEER SIGN UP" button. The browser window also shows a "Need Help? Donate" link in the top right corner.
